By Generic C. Wilson &

The Pentagon admitted yes there were no means" to take terday that Air Force person them back to Vietnam on that in Thailand drugged 18 date—May 1, 1975.

South Vietnamese refugees "The Thai officials were adament" that the refugees will to Guam.

The refugees the Pentagon

they were going to the southern delta region of their own country—not Thailand or Guam.

The refugees became hysterical when they discovered they had landed in Thailand, and, according to the Pentagon, "demanded to be returned to Vietnam and threatened suicide if they were not returned immediately."

Thai government officials had stipulated that South Vietnamese planes carrying refugees could land in Thailand only if the refugees did not stay there. The U.S. Air Force flew C,141 transports to Thailand to transport the refugees from Thailand to Guam.

"Hours of discussion," the Pentagon said, "failed to persuade" the 13 refugees "that

The refugees, the Pentagon the Pentagon statement consaid, had been told by South thinued. "A decision was made by the United States and That the Constant of people on the scene to sedate the Vietnamese and take them to Guam with the other refu-gees where it was hoped that repatriation could be made expeditiously."

A Pentagon official said sodium pentathol was used to sedate the refugees and thorazine was given to them as a tranquilizer

"Although they were helped aboard the aircraft," said the Pentagon, "all 13 were ambulatory during flight. All except one, who insisted on being carried off, left, the aircraft at Guam without assistance."

An Air Force nurse flew with the 13 refugees to Gnam and noted "no ill effects" from the drugs, the Pentagon said.

See DRUG, A8, Col. 3

Guam. "We knelt down accepting the execution," the refugees said, according to the account quoted by Anderson and Whitten.

Rep. Joshua Eilberg (D-Pa.) said yesterday that he had confirmed the Anderson-Whitten account through interviewing 12 of the 13 Vietnamese refugees on Guam

He is chairman of the House
Judiciary immigration inscommittee and the state of t committee and the atered to hold hearings on the incident if the Air Force and not issue a satisfactory report, ....

Eilberg said in a press release issued through his subcommittee office yeaterday that he had been told the 13 refugees were beaten when they refused to board the plane for Guam "and then each person was carried by mur Americans into a room where they were given two injections in their arms and two in their legs." He said he had not been able identify "the Air Force officers responsible for the drugging" or the Army captain other Vietnamese who have who had examined the Viet- asked to go back home. namese and believed their story.

"However," said Eilberg, we have enough evidence to confirm what happened. This refugees attend negotiations is a horrible thing for our country. What we can't understand is what was the compulsion involved-what motivated the Air Force officers."

Eilberg said the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees was to arrange the return of the 13 refugees along with

The commissioner, the congsessman said, has suggested to the South Vietnamese government that a delegation of on their return. But there has been no response to that request, Eilberg said.

DRUG, From A1

Columnists Jack Anderson and Les Whitten first wrote of the incident Monday. They wrote that Norman Sweet, the government's refugee executive on Guam in May, de-manded an investigation of the treatment given to the 13 refugees.

Exect also cabled statements from the refugees that claimed three American colonels had threatened to "shoot us" it they did not go to