

Classics

21 April 1969

Dr John Nichols
Kansas City, Kan.

Dear John:

My God! Wheels within wheels! Tell me what on earth you make of this, for it may be a magnificent windfall.

5/ I just re-read Josiah Thompson, pp. 145f. It makes me gasp. The two test cartridge cases that Frazier fired and introduced as CE 577 are dented on the case shoulder! In my excitement at other things, I missed this before, but I am flabbergasted. Can Frazier have had the audacity, the criminal gall, to have pulled the bullets from his test cases and to have fired the primers?

Stop me if I am nuts. Tell me I am jumping to conclusions just to ~~save~~ save a preconceived idea for which I am now inextricably bound. Tell me, can I possibly be wrong? What else can I suppose?

The only circumstance under which Frazier can escape an accusation of blatant fakery is if those shoulder dents occurred after firing. But how on earth could they? How can it have happened on two in exactly the same place and still be attributed to chance? How can it have happened on four?

Save me from this if you can, for I am ready to leap on this like a tiger; ~~if~~ I've had the taste of Frazier's blood in my mouth for a week, but this is too much.

~~Bernabei~~

Bernabei

cc. Weisberg