Oswald - New Orleans

[illegible] - Russell C. De Brueys

[illegible] (the number is illegible) refers to a document I have not seen, the transcript of an executive [illegible] with the other witness they ran down [illegible] De Brueys. Earlier he had been at [illegible] in New Orleans and in asking those of special skills who were sent to Dallas.

During one of my conferences [illegible] De Brueys by a man with whom he'd had some previous [illegible]. Name Ivon. In manner form claimed to have been [illegible] and Oswald together.

All the rest of the interview is a brief story of film that was hardly more than a factual digest, so none here was necessary to avoid allegations of evidence against CIA.

I believe that my fuller version is an historically important record because of the widespread circulation given to the Ivon allegation and because he was also a witness before the Warren subcommittee of the Church committee. (I was unsuccessful in my efforts to get from he recall that he had given me a different version of a similar story to which De Brueys did not agree. I believe I also intended to mention that the story had been a continuing one and was familiar.)

If [illegible] certainly [illegible] there is added historical importance to the record and also reason for the full transcript of the interview to be available in Fairbanks to De Brueys and his family. Even if only at some distant future date.
