Dear Jerry,

Except that it might have been a good idea if we could have spoken before the Hunt trial started it is better that your coming up will be delayed. I'm trying to get a book ready for printing and Jim is hard pressed to file the appeal and all the other necessary papers in the Ray case.

Paul Rothermel sent me a few clippings from the previous hearing, including the one in which the Hunts called him the CIA agent in their bosom.

If and when you have time to copy them I'm sure Jim could find use for the evidence Jon got against Foreman, those things you showed me in Memphis.

The other matters will now wait.

Jim and I would both be interested in any news accounts of the trial if you can have your secretary copy them.

Our interest in Percy is not going to end soon.

- And I can think of circumstances in which yours might last longer.

Sincerely,

Dear Harold:

Yes indeed I still plan to wing my way up there and see you guys. However, my work load simply has not permitted it, and now the Hunt wiretap trial will extend through the next two weeks. I will be up there sometime after that.

Good to hear from you.

Personal regards,
