Dear Mr. Bohling,

In answer to your note of the 22d., first a caution I hope you will not mind: all that many people are saying about Frank Sturgis (Fiorini) and that he says about himself ought not be taken as necessarily true in some case or possible in others.

This is not to say he is not a person of interest.

My own goes back to 1966-7 and my files, rather those I had, date to that period aside from what has been published since Watergate.

When his name surfaced in that affair I took my file to Bob Woodward who has not returned it.

I do not know the extent of your interest but there is more than CDS12. My copy of it is gone and I presume just not returned. The duplicate copies I still have do not include this and are not suitable for copying or I'd send copies to you.

The Commission used CD and CR interchangeably.

He is mentioned in CR ~~120~~ 1020. (Also these are called "Commission No.") This consists of an opening summary and pages numbered at least to 7. The copies someone sent me after Watergate does not include pages 4 and 5 and any after 7.

He is also in CD 59, which has a summary and two pages.

Aside from these pages if you get any documents I'd appreciate copies because the Archives' charge is now 15¢ per page and I have no financing. I'll return to this.

You can obtain copies from the National Archives and Records Service, Washington 20408. Under any circumstances they will in the end respond. But if you are in a hurry and if you anticipate asking for other records, it is better to send a check for more than the expected cost and open a deposit account. If you do this your future requests will be speeded up because they will be prepaid. The person whose knowledge is most complete and extensive, a man who under normal circumstances is very cooperative and helpful, is Mr. Marion Johnson. (You won't sue them as I do!)

Today I have no special interest in Fiorini/Sturgis but I would like my files to be as complete as possible. (Over the years they have been gutted by those in whom I misplaced trust.) It is my hope that they will end up as an unofficial archive with the support of some foundation. I attempted this years ago but have not been able to take time for it since original disinterest. I think these are unique and the most extensive files on this and related subjects. One state historical society wants them now and a college has an interest. But I am 62, have no regular income, and while I work a longer day than most younger people can, am not yet ready to stop either writing of further inquiry. I do not extend the meaning of the "Sucker Trust Fund" on your check but I mention this because you may know of others who may have an interest. If any arrangement of this nature can be made I would hope it would include a provision for unlimited access except to a small percentage of data that by its content ought not for some years be available when it can hurt innocent people.

Sincerely,
Harold Weisberg
