5-1
12/2/60

DELEGATES OF THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONARY Front in New Orleans include, front row, from left, SERGIO ARCACHA SMITH, CARLOS MARQUEZ, MANUEL F. CUESADA and FRANCISCO E. URIARTE. Standing, from left, LUIS HERNANDEZ, RAMON NOBA, JORGE TARAFA and ORESTES PENA.

Bare Office Launches Anti-Castro Drive Here

By DAVE TINDER

Outwardly it looks, from the street, like any other office. But a carefully lettered sign on the front window of the modest office here in the 1000 block of Canal St. announces that anti-Castro Cubans have opened headquarters in New Orleans.

Inscribed on the window are the words, "Frente Revolucionario Democratico Cubano," translated into English, the names-only Cuban Revolutionary Front.

The office itself, on the second floor of the Balter building, [illegible] Canal, was [illegible] floor of [illegible] Cuba, [illegible] a typewriter, [illegible] had arrived.

[illegible] Sergio Arcacha Smith, [illegible] Cuba, [illegible] Front, F. R. D. had [illegible] about the Front.

[illegible] Batista [illegible] months, he stayed [illegible] "We came [illegible] Batista.

In the New Orleans office [illegible] Smith and Francisco [illegible] who will work with university students on behalf of the organization, and Manuel [illegible] Cuesada, [illegible] he came from Miami with Smith [illegible] for the office. Furniture and [illegible] arrived from Cuba [illegible] day.

Does a counter-revolution against Castro have a chance of success?

Cuban Optimism

For an answer, Smith [illegible] some figures.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]