Dear Dave,

While Harry Livingstone has not used your name in any of his imagined conspiracies so far as I know I presume that you have heard of his vicious campaign against a number of us. Because he persisted in it and because from all indications the only purpose of the so-called investigation of the Baltimore police internal affairs component seems to have been self-protection and covering up, I decided that in self protection and hopefully in Harry's interest to go to the local prosecutor. There is a provision of the Maryland code that seems to define what he has been doing as a felony. My first appointment was on Good Friday, a legal holiday in Maryland. The assistant state's attorney with whom I had an appointment had to rush to a court because everyone else took the holiday. The next appointment was aborted when she was taken ill. I await the call for the third one.

To be able to give them all the possible information on what Harry has been saying about us I've been trying to get copies of all his relevant letters I can. By relevant I mean where he talks about us and what he says and anything relating to his behavior and his self- and book ^{content}, which is what seems to be the trigger.

If I heard correctly Richard Waybright wrote a letter of so-called apology to you.

The one he wrote me was mostly lies that he knew I knew are lies. Possibly the one he sent you is similar. I believe he was told to write those letters so it could all be wiped out on the records with a record of his "apologies." If to your knowledge he did other than the little he said in his letter, what nobody had to hire a policeman to do, I'd like to know. Not because I have any interest in hurting him, richly as he deserves that. He literally stole only copies from me. Even Livingstone believes he did that for Lifton. And for money from Lifton, who had a very real interest in what Richard ~~was~~ stole. Knowing what he did and who he saw there can be helpful for any development like the prosecutor taking a case against Harry.

Awful as Harry has treated some of us, I also have no interest in hurting him. I am concerned about violence from him and if there is a case I would like for him to be sentenced to the treatment he really does need. While I do not think that he is ever rational on the subject, I do think he is literally sick now. And has been for months.

So, if there is anything you can send me, thanks.

Our best to you both,

David
