2/15 Dear Jerry and Howard, You have recently complained about some of uy intormperate letters, saying they are, in the case then in point, counter-productive. I replied citing Ecclesiastes, my point being that each case is a separate one, each requires a deparate apmanch, and with any ane, the approach that seems propermalyatary from time to time. I do not, of course, allege that in eacer case I an wight to use the kind of approach and/or langiage I finve. I believe I did invoke Al Smith and his dictum, letrg"look. at the record. It is with thins in mind, not to argue butsi, that frou may come to understand that you don't fish for minfors with shark-hooks or make loge with a club, that sometimes a useful purpose can be served by what may seem like a wrong appreseni, Fasend this to Jerry for hin to forward to Howard. I could not beke enough copies for my own needs. This is the only extira one Zhave. I did use new carbon paper, which altifough new and good brand is not very good. It is; therefore, not only the best copy thave to spare, it is the only one. It covers six appeal, and I have to feep a copy in the file for each. It is the direct consequence, of one of those intermperate letters of which I sent a copJ, to tre appeals office of GSA. He read my letter with some disngy and phoned mé. We spoke for a half hour. He, like all burepucrats, hates work. But he also made some remarkablé admisgins, only some of which are referred to, like not even knowing there Is a contract between his agency and the estatel or even the regyzations under which he, personally, works. He even admitted he phonod before reading all of my letter! And he so dislikes work the he Jould rather have me file suit. Nice record? Well, we were not figfifing and only at a few times real pointed. When he objected to the length of the letters, I responded that there were ample ways of eitiminating them: comply with the law and regulations, for the Archives not to lie, and not to address to me letters designed for the making of a false and self-serving record that I might later hate to face in court, for this required of me the making of my own reodrd. He says my correspondence is the largest in the entire GSA history! I said I also regreated having to take such time, but that unigs he was familiar with it, he could not pass judgeraent on it.
 depied. I told him this was not only a needless burden, such lists being required within the Archives, but at this point beyond my physical capability. We compromised by my promising to send him toda, a Sew specific appeals. I think, on having suffered the poor copy and reading it with care, you will find that it has the capability gifeducating the appeals machinery, whether or not it does (which is worth the effort), and just mighty in some cases, succeed. It took ne-four hours, now painful hours. You can make your own evaluations, if not now, later, and I do not solicit them or argument. I close with an avuncular note: the weak never win a fight by countering an attack. For survival, the weak but have the initiative. And for success, even more so. If this involves other risks, with me they
