Dear Mr Weisburg:

Please excuse my delay in replying to your letter of August 15.

I think that your letter was very unfair to me and to my associates, but I think that this was partly my fault since I was very brief. The main purpose of this letter is to clear things up.

My book does not deal completely with other books, only one small section of it does. The rest of my book is complete facts. My book is going to present both sides, pro and con and then it will tell the most logical conclusion.

In the section that deals with other books, I made an error by putting typographical in there. I deal with facts. When I do write something about a book, I am going to give the author of the book in question time (as much space as I took up in the criticism) to rebuke my statements. As for the Warren Report, I have read the report and the volumes have been gone over. I have also read many of the important books.

I do not want to sound rude, but do think that you were very unfair, due mainly to me. What I meant by 'any new evidence,' is any evidence that probably has not been brought to my attention. I understand that you are not able to read my manuscript, for I rank you in the top 5. Would you consider writing my preface?

Thank you,

Bill Price

Awaiting your reply.
