Dear Miss Russo,

Thanks for the clip from the Tatler. It may be an undependable source, but the story itself is credible and in character.

These things always help, even if one does not credit them.

The prerequisites were on non-use.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Thanks for your note of March 29th. I saw you on the John Bandy Show a few weeks ago and it certainly was a lively program.

I can't afford $41 for the two parts of Past Martem, so I guess I'll wait until they come out in regular book form.

Attached is an item from the National Tattler, hardly an authoritative paper, but I thought you might not have seen this about Siham's father.

You mentioned "prerequisites" in your letter. Can you let me know what you mean? I assume this is about the xeroxing of Past Martem.

Sincerely
Priscilla Russo

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Thanks very much for your prompt reply to my letter.

I don't mind at all reading the two parts of Post Mortem in Xerox editions. Can you tell me what the cost would be? If it's too much, and I can't afford it, I'd be very happy to make a Xerox copy at my office and as payment I'd be willing to make you an extra set. Would that be agreeable to you?

Hoping to hear from you soon,
I am

Dear Miss Russo,

At the moment I have no spare copy of either part of POST MORTEM. I have having some made.

I don't know when I'll have them.

You did not respond about the prerequisites.

The cost is $20 each part, plus $1 for handling, postage and insurance.

I have been in NYC each of the past two weeks making TV and radio appearances in connection with my latest book. Perhaps on the next trip we can discuss this further.

Sincerely,
