Dear Mr. Minckle,

From Mr. Tolch's failure to answer my February letter and yours to write me after what Mr. Frakepas told you, I take it that you are not interested in my work for either your magazine or as a book. Nonetheless, I am sending you a copy for review purposes only.

The xppmxxx preface explains the appearance of the book in this form. I still hope for regular publication.

If there is any way in which you can help in its distribution or advertising I'd appreciate it, including advertising it in your magazine and either getting paid on a per order basis or making the bookstore profit and selling it yourself. We are without funds and have gotten credit for the printing.

I know you plan a series on this subject. Yet I am certain you will not use my material without authorization, hence I have no reluctance in sending you this copy in the event, as I hope, you'd care to review it.

If you have any questions, I'll be happy to answer them. I'd also appreciate any comments you'd care to make.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Golsheng
