Dear Rob:

Harold is off to court this morning so I am acknowledging your note which accompanied the book on Lincoln.

I suspect that I am the one most interested in that event. Harold feels he doesn't have time to go off into past history, but I am interested in the case and have read quite a bit about it. If you ever come across it, Ask For Treason is an excellent and well documented history of it. I was loaned a copy several years ago but unfortunately returned it to its owner who doubtless has long since lost it.

We are certainly looking forward to your getting a trip to Washington and visiting us. I need advance notice on the choco=chick, though. If the chance in May does solidify, please don't make it the weekend including the 15th. We have to be in Philadelphia at that time.

We are both well except for Harold's continuing problem with the phlebitis which he is keeping well supported by means of a garter belt and surgical hose. He is doing well, however.

No comment from me on the Church Committee's performance. You get that from Harold and it will have to await your arrival.

Best,

I note this new (loan) typewriter has some of Harold's spelling habits. Odd, since he is allergic to an electric machine!

Dear Harold & Lil

The time slips by so fast, particularly when the aluminum industry keeps one busy catching up with low-priced sales to Mainland China and ~~min~~ price hikes to various ^{and} sundry U.S. customers, that I forgot I Haven't written to or heard from you two in months. Anyhow, hello.

Enclosed please find: (note the authority of the colon) one book on the complicated removal of Abraham Lincoln from office 101 years ago. I finally found an old bookstore with two copies, so one is yours and the other is on loan.

Been trying to inveigle a trip to Washington so I can ~~drop~~ drop in on you (okay?) and, while no luck so far, there still is a chance in May. Still thinking of chocolate chicken.

I hope you two are well and what do you think of the Church ^omm ittee's inabilities?
