Dear Harold,

I really think I'd better stick with plans to come Oct. 31 to Nov. 3. I may be limited in what I can say if someone else is there although I doubt it.

Since I have seen only what you've published on the autopsy(WW 1,2) I can only judge your positions and angles from that. At the time both were written there wasn't enough info to prove any particular point but there was plenty to prove corruption, ect. This you did quite adequately and I just assumed you would continue on that line. "I have now proved what did happen" has me pretty darned excited since nothing could interest me more. I hope what you have proved overlaps what I have but assumed which is basically as follows: Definately, a jacketed bullet from the rear hit the back/top of the head and exited on the right side above the ear. Just as certain, another bullet - a high velocity frangible one - entered the frontal bone. I'm all but sure a similar type bullet (from the same gun?) entered the front of the neck. The back wound is a puzzler but tentatively I assume a low velocity copper jacketed bullet caused it and lodged in the shoulder muscle. Oh yes, the second head shot came from the ~~XX~~ front(knoll) as did the anterior neck one. I calculate that at least the 2nd head shot came from a position on the knoll much further west than the first tree. On an uncropped version of Moorman which I have I believe I have found the gunman.

All of the above is sketchy here but I will substantiate it in great detail for you when I come. I would definately like to read your autopsy stuff but unfortunately time will not let me go into the King/Ray case.

I've just gotten a Foley photo which as you must know is important. My analysis of Hughes/Weaver shows conclusively that 2 men were on the sixth floor(I have nothing written on this but can explain it all to you). I also detect two men in the Dal-Tex window you point out in WW2. This analysis should interest you for it may mean that the object is a rifle. I also have some fresh data on Z which I'll bring.

I think I'll have to copy your stuff from Sprague since Dick has already discouraged me from going to Sprague himself. Pictures should still occupy most of our conversation since I gather I will absorb most of your medical data from reading.

Don't worry about writing letters ~~XXXX~~ before the time I come unless they pertain to the trip. I know how busy you are and most of the stuff we say in letters will be repeated when we meet.

Still,

Howard
