Dear Zack,

You are 17, with a fine mind you use very well, and I am 75 years older than you. And overloaded with medical problems, some serious. However, I continue to work and all my work will be a record for history and will be publicly available as soon as the arrangement can be completed by local Hood College, an exceptionally good small college. When my wife fell and broke a hip, when in her 80s, I had to turn all my books over the Hood, where ^{the} book store sells them. Instead of some being out of print Hood continued to make them available in xerox editions. One I particularly ~~recommend~~ ^{recommend} ~~from~~ ^{to} you is the first of the Whitewash series. It was the first book on the assassination and it remains the basic book. That Dulles transcript, which is much more than that, is basic to Whitewash IV in which it is printed in facsimile.

You are fortunate to have a history teacher who encourages you to do what is not popular but is nonetheless very worthwhile. And you are lucky to be learning as you are what ^{most} young people do not learn when they are young.

The uncut version of Case Open, about 800 pages, will eventually be available on a CDROM from Hood. A dear friend is putting as much as he can ^{for} Hood availability that way. Including the more recent books which I ~~have~~ ^{made} no effort to edit ~~for~~ ^{to} get printed but have written as a record for history.

The Hood address is 402 Rosemont Ave., Frederick, MD 21702.

I obtained an enormous volume of records in FOIA lawsuits, a third of a million pages, and they will be available along with the indexes to my printed books and the FBI's once-secret Dallas index.

Garrison, I regret, was a brilliant fraud. The trail of the assassins was one he never took. And it is in other ways less than honest. True also of most of the books that were done by major publishers.

I am sorry that I cannot ^{do} ~~get~~ ^{to} ~~you~~ ^{hunt} and search for you. I am sorry that is no longer safe for me to drive. But I think I have a record or ~~who~~ ^{who} at home that you may want to think about ^{then} ~~and~~ ^{then} write about. One in particular that I have on my desk and can copy for you is a memo to Bill Moyerz, who was the DJ channel to LBJ, was actually written November 24 but that being a Sunday, there was no typist available. It was approved by LBJ that night and it became national policy. I'll include that. I also have the Katzenbach handwritten version of it. I suggest that perhaps it is enough for an essay of not great length.

I'll try to find the time to answer some of your questions. I think from what you disclose about your ^{mind in your} ~~left in your~~ fine letter you may have some questions.

All of the books I had printed that you do not have are now available at the Wood library.

Keep up the good work and continue to read critically, as you have been doing.

Best wishes,

 Harold Weisberg

Feel free to use anything I have published.
