Jack Ruby was concerned that the al'name of a gunrunner for anti-Castro Cubans might come up during his 1964 ortrial here, The Dallas News has orlearned.

bene The name of the gunrunner, Thomas Eli Davis Jr., didn't surface during the Ruby in the Dallas area constantly except for trips to Houston, New Orleans, during the period Aug. 2 to 7, 1963.

Both Davis and Ruby said they had met several times before the assassination and discussed gunrunning as a lucrative business, but each of them

Ruby the "removal of the President" gets "a little out of perspective because New York, Chicago and Edna, Texas, X if you will recall that back in the early 1960s and late 1950s we were on very good terms with Castro."

Ruby attorney Melvin Belli of San Francisco told The News gun running
