There were these discrepancies:

Russo, 25. an insurance salesman from Baton Rouge, told the court he was in the apartment of Ferrie here in September 1963 and listened to the three men conspire to kill the President and escape.

But two weeks ago, shortly after Ferrie died of what the coroner termed natural causes and Garrison maintained was suicide, Russo told a newsman from New Orleans television station WDSU that Ferrie never mentioned Oswald's name to him, adding, "I had never heard of Oswald until on television. .ahh. . .the assassination."

"It's Only Conjecture"

"Dave Ferrie had the ability used that is another thing ... It's only conjecture."

Russo has said he did not get in touch with Garrison until two days after Ferrie's deathwhen he saw a newspaper picture of Ferrie. He said he had

That is the date on which Garannounced he had "solved" the case. And Russo apparently is a major witness in this way: Garrison's case-perhaps he's the application for a warrant to search Shaw's house, confirmed while under influence of "truth serum" that he overheard the plot to murder Kennedy.

Other ponderables: Russo told a newsman that Ferrie jokingly posed the question of assassinating the president to him, "that if he and I could do it . . . it court, basically in his own could be done." Speaking so rapidly and indistinctly that court reporters asked him to slow down, Russo told his story with his eyes fixed on Garrison.

He identified Shaw as a man he knew as "Clem Bertrand" in 1963.

Under Garrison's questioning, Russo described the meeting

"The party dwindled away . . . "confidential informant" Dave Ferrie began the converwho, according to Garrison's sation, pacing back and forth and talking to Bertrand and Os-wald . . . Ferrie wore baggy pants. Oswald, was dirty, as usual, and half shaven. He wore pullover shirt that was not a shirt. Bertrand was the only one dressed what I'd call decent. He wore a maroon jacket.'
