A passion for American history impelled Dan Sarver to become a JFK assassination researcher. Until November 22, 1963, Dan Sarver's focus was World War II and the Civil War. After that fateful and fatal date, his energies were channeled toward the goal of putting the pieces of the historical puzzle together.

The contradictory evidence and diametrically opposed conclusions Dan found in the Warren Commission Report and Rush to Judgement convinced him that the real truth might forever be shrouded in mystery.

Dan has read the hundreds of studies since the Warren Commission, has sat in on countless seminars and examined available documents. He's appeared many times as a speaker for conventions, associations and organizations and has frequently participated in radio talk shows.

Dan was born in Kansas City, Missouri and currently lives in Overland Park, Kansas. Graduated from the University of Missouri in 1970, Dan Sarver is an accomplished public speaker and successful businessman. He and his wife Cathy have a son, Brad and a daughter, Amy.

Let Dan take your club, convention or association on one of the most fascinating walks in history.
