

Dear David,

3/6/93

Your telephone answering machine gave me nonstop gibberish for a minute or so. No pause for any message and almost not a single word comprehensible. I phoned you when Adams did not answer his office phone.

Two of those I suggested ^{to speak} he ~~spoke~~ to phoned me, as did one I wrote before Adams was working on Peggy's complaint, Gary Mack. He has what I think is not only an absolute proof of use of the computer but one that defeated Charles Bronson's intense desire for privacy. He has an unlisted phone, too. If I do not get to speak to Adams on Monday when you can would you please tell him that Gary Mack has threats from Harry he is sending me and is the source on what I say about Bronson ^{and more?} He had dealings with Harry and Monaco.

His home phone, both area 817, is 292-5656. Office, KXAS-TV, 654-6412. Remember, that is Fort Worth, not Dallas.

I think I forgot to suggest to Adams that he speak to Gus Russo.

The enclosed clipping is for the boys but it may interest you and Frances. It was sent me by a friend of about your age, a Louisville lawyer who has been kind in many ways. His wife is a medical-records expert. Once when we were talking I referred to the falls of the Cumberland River that I remember from 1938, when I was there and saw the moonbow. I'd heard from locals that there is only one other place in the world to see it, the great falls of the Zambesi River in Africa, Victoria Falls. Bill was surprised that I knew and that I remembered. It was an FDR depression-day public project, still new when I was there. When I was on the Harlan case with the DJ. Which reminds me of a fish story that is a true story. One day I was travelling with an FBI agent who was looking for a missing witness. We got far off the road and where we intended to go there were several men with several large washtubs, remember them, galvanized and about 30" across? Well, they had channel cats in them so large that in the tub, their ^{heads} ~~heads~~ in a circle, the heads ~~went~~ went past their tails!

I also heard from Couch. He says he broke with Harry. He also said that Harry told him he believes that Richard did steal those Lifton files of mine and did sell them to Lifton.

Hope all is going well. I'd like to hear that it is.

Our best to you all,

Harold
