Dear Mr. Schorr,

Thanks for the good news that you received hundreds of letters. What a thing it would be if charges are pressed if you have a parade of first-person accounts to get on the record!

Let this be known and the interest in pressing you may diminish.

I know others are willing. I heard from Les Whitten right after I wrote you.

Please do not misunderstand my offering of unsolicited advice.

While I've never had the benefits of a CBS contract I do have the benefit of comparable experience with the odds greater against me. I was also without the support you have or your reputation. The law Weicher threatened to use against Colson was passed in an unsuccessful effort to "get" me. In that case, not the only one in which I was involved as what came to be called a "premature anti-fascist," I also had a rough time before a grand jury when there was enormous political pressure on the DA and his assistants.

I was quite young. But I soon learned that the weak never ~~survive~~ ^{survive} against the uninhibited strong in political matters if the weak are defensive. It was possible to take the grand jury away from the prosecutors. I did it and got its agent indicted.

Except as they relate to your personal situation, I suggest that things are not "going well...America-wise" and hope that ~~an~~ ^{an} able a man as you are you will do other than "wait in good spirits." Especially because CBS is paying you anyway.

Your Rolling Stone piece was great.

Good luck,

DANIEL SCHORR

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Back from three months of lectruing, I only now have a respite in which to thank you for your good letter of February~~x~~ 15, which, in fact, was one of the first of what turned out to be many hundreds.

It qualifies you for a low number in the "pre-March Club," for, starting in March, support somehow became easier and more general.

Now, I think things are going well, America-wise if not CBS-wise. The House Ethics Committee, busy though it is with matters of greater moment, has asked to interview me. We won't go without a subpoena, and even than have little to say. We wait, in good spirits, to see what~~x~~ happens.

Yours,
