Dear Moo,

Your silence tells me all I need know of the present.

Recalling the past, I send you this copy of the order issued yesterday by Chief Judge Edward Curran, Fed. Dist. Ct. DC.

Thus far, we've not lost one.

And gotten no fakes, either.

The impossible does sometimes take longer, especially if one has friends.

As I left the courtroom yesterday morning, it occurred to me that with enemies like this, do I need friends? Meaning, of course, like those I have.

One more is filed, one more to be filed tomorrow.
