The skyline of Washington, D.C. is dominated by the Capitol and the Washington Monument. The Capitol is the key to the street address system even though it is not located in the center of the city. The city is laid out in rectangular blocks, created by streets intersecting at right angles. Also, diagonal arteries fan out from various centers. The radial lines are generally named after one of the fifty states. Pennsylvania Avenue is the most famous of them, with the White House at number 1600.

Mr. Weisberg:

I am shocked by the new book by the Fontaines, outlined in recent D.C. Post "Outlook" Section. (Elrod, etc., and "The Tramps".)

This shows that the truth will emerge, no matter what. Elrod shows that Oswald knew (of) Ruby; and Ruby knew (of) Oswald.
