SYNOPSIS

Robert Klause claims he did not talk to Robert A. Surrey regarding "wanted for Treason" leaflets until the day he, Klause, came to the Secret Service Office in Dallas.

DETAILS OF INVESTIGATION

Reference is made to memorandum reports submitted by Special Agent John Joe Howlett, Dallas, dated May 14 and 15, 1964.

Other Investigations

On May 26, 1964, Robert Klause was contacted by telephone and questioned as to whether or not Robert A. Surrey had contacted him or discussed with him the "Wanted for Treason" leaflets after Surrey had picked up the leaflets a week or two before November 22, 1963. He was specifically asked if Surrey had contacted him after the assassination of President Kennedy. Klause stated that Surrey had not mentioned the leaflets to him at any time after the leaflets had been delivered to Surrey. Klause stated that on May 13, 1964, before coming to the Secret Service Office in Dallas, he had contacted Surrey and informed him that he was coming to the Secret Service Office at our request and that Surrey had remarked, "Well, that's the way the ball bounces."

Mr. Klause stated that if Surrey had talked to him about this matter or if he knew anything else that he would gladly tell us, as he feels much better after having visited our Dallas office and telling what he knew about the leaflets.

It might be stated here that Robert A. Surrey was requested to appear for an interview at Dallas, Texas, with a representative of the President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy, and he declined to do so, with the 56
