S-I Incorrect In Shaw Trial Film Report

New Orleans attorney Ben C. Toledano said today that a proposal to Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. to film the trial of Clay L. Shaw was made by Public Broadcast Laboratory, a Ford Foundation grantee.

The States-Item incorrectly reported Saturday that the proposal was made by National Educational Television. Toledano is attorney for Public Broadcast Laboratory.

The attorney said PBL has offered to make an audio-visual transcript of the trial of Shaw, accused by District Attorney Jim Garrison of conspiring to kill President John F. Kennedy.

PBL proposes that the transcript, if the court and attorneys approve, be made part of the official record of the trial. It would not be made public until final judgment in the case is rendered.

Then, Toledano said, it might be used to produce a PBL documentary for broadcast on NET stations. Cameras would be set up in a cloakroom adjoining the court, using an air-conditioning vent for filming, and tying in with microphones already in the court for sound.
