Dear Earl,

Glad you called Shaw as I suggested. Your story got some play on radio today. I do not know how much.

When I work outside I carry a transistor radio and listen to an all-news station. Today it was WTOP, the CBS Washington outlet. This was not a net item. It was credited to your paper only, no by-line but as copyrighted.

What this station used is exactly what I told you you'd find in Whitewash, about the amount of metal missing from 399 precluding it as having caused JBC's wounds hence it did not strike both men.

However, I had no calls on it from any reporter (to about suppertime).

Next time you have a story like Bell's, which is tenuous and ~~indefinite~~ indefinite but important & provable, give me a call. I may be able to give you another fit.

If you taped the interview I'd like to be able to use it in the court case.

Shaw could have said more. Or was it Gregory? I've forgotten which died.

This radio play was good. Each time it was a lead item, usually "The surgeon who operated on Governor Connally said the bullet he saw could not have caused his and JFK's wounds," then during the newscast a longer item.

Best wishes,
