Judge Asks For Files On Teamster Tap

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 20 (AP)—U.S. District Court Judge Frank Wilson today ordered the FBI to produce from its so-called "June file" of bugged conversations all 1,317 transcripts relating to a former Detroit Teamsters Union official convicted of jury tampering here five years ago.

The order was issued in the second day of a hearing in which Teamsters President James Hoffa and three others sought to overturn their jury tampering convictions on grounds that their trials were affected by illegal wiretap evidence.

Morris Shenker, Hoffa's chief counsel had demanded that the entire file relating to Larry Campbell of Detroit be turned over to defense lawyers. Over government objections, the judge said he would first study the file to determine if it contains information the defense should have.

Government attorneys earlier had produced 254 transcripts on recorded conversations involving Campbell, and had insisted these contained all pertinent information. Shenker said he was unwilling to take the Government's word.

An FBI official earlier had been pressed for more information about the "June file," which he said under questioning contained a record of all conversations which the FBI had bugged illegally.

Charles Bolz, FBI chief of accounting and records, disclosed existence of the file, apparently for the first time, at the U.S. District Court hearing Tuesday.

Harvey Silets, representing Campbell, drew from Bolz description of records on what electronic surveillance information is available. Campbell is one of the three men who were convicted with Hoffa five years ago.

"The use to which these electronic surveillance were put to cannot be determined by those logs?" Silets asked.

"That's right," replied Bolz. "We just make a copy of the specific document in the file and send it to the Justice Department."
