

Mr. Earl B. Slater
2576 Ashbrook Drive
Ellicott City, MD 21043

9/15/97

Dear Earl,

Sorry we could not be there yesterday for what we hope was a very happy day for you. As I did not tell your wife when she phoned, I am currently having to keep the left leg elevated with the heel as high as my heart and two of the medicines that have been keeping me alive make me itch intensely. And as Ed reminded me when I told her of the invitation, that was the day of her family reunion. Because I'd have to keep that leg down too long I never to go them.

Enclosed is a disk of the second epilogue of Waketh the Watchman. If it is any problem for you printing it out let me know and I'll have a xerox made. Please return it when you have finished with it.

The person who had offered to retype the first epilogue did not and did not return it. I found my copy that I make to be able to answer questions and in time I'll have that for you.

If I loaned you the disk of Picturing Corruption of the JFK Assassination and you can't print it out please let me know. My niece used a program it seems nobody else has or can print out. She is to provide me with a disk of a more common program.

Hope we do get to see you soon.

Best,

