

Secretary Asks Jury to Summon Him in Inquiry

Cancels Pay of Briggs After Langer Charges

Secretary of Interior Ickes today suspended without pay George N. Briggs, one of his assistants, "pending the outcome of the inquiry by the grand jury" into the so-called "Hopkins letter."

Mr. Ickes also announced he had asked permission to appear before the District grand jury investigating the letter. The Secretary said he knew nothing whatever about the "Hopkins letter," and doubted if he could shed much light on it, but declared:

"I do not relish the bandying about of my name in connection with a matter which seems to be as bizarre and absurd as it appears to be contemptable and vicious."

The names of Mr. Briggs and Mr. Ickes were brought into the complicated affair yesterday by Senator Langer, Republican, of North Dakota, who read to the Senate a series of letters which he said had been written by Mr. Briggs to C. Nelson Sparks, author of the book "One-Man-Wendell Willkie."

Langer Accuses Briggs.

Senator Langer interpreted the correspondence as meaning that Mr. Briggs furnished to Mr. Sparks, for publication in the book, the letter purporting to have been signed by Harry Hopkins, adviser to President Roosevelt. Mr. Hopkins has denounced the letter as a forgery.

Senator Langer also interpreted the correspondence as indicating that Mr. Ickes himself had possession of the letter for a time.

Mr. Ickes today said: "I hope that the grand jury will soon find the person guilty of this hoax so as to be able to deal quickly and appropriately with him."

Henry A. Schweinhaut, special assistant to Attorney General Biddle, said there was "no doubt" in his mind that the "Hopkins letter" alleging to give views of Mr. Hopkins about the prospective presidential candidacy of Mr. Willkie this year, was a forgery.

Mr. Schweinhaut, commenting on the inquiry, predicted it would be "demonstrated" that the letter was forged and stated in response to a question that he "wouldn't be surprised" if the person responsible was turned up.

Briggs Not at Office.

Mr. Briggs did not appear at his office this morning but gave out a statement at his home at Fairlington, Va., accusing Senator Langer of attempting to smear Mr. Ickes.

Reporters noted that Mr. Briggs' typewriter and that if his secretary had been removed from his office at the Interior Department and learned that three men had taken them away. The Federal Bureau of Investigation said it had no comment on this matter.

Mr. Schweinhaut said he "imagined" Mr. Briggs would be called before the grand jury.

The Briggs statement said:

"This whole affair is a double-barreled blast at Secretary Ickes. It was the Secretary who as public works administrator had Bill Langer, then Governor of North Dakota, impeached for the misapplication of Federal funds.

"The other half of the gun barrel is occupied by the Patterson press, which is determined to wreck the Secretary of the Interior and it will destroy any one who gets in the way of its deadly purpose.

"Even if I had written everything that Sparks has released through the two channels that for years have been thirsting for Mr. Ickes' blood I would have a still greater contempt than I now feel for one who would furnish newspapers with photographs of private mail which purports as this does to deal with very personal matters."

Senator Langer inserted in the Congressional Record yesterday eight letters and six telegrams which he said were sent by Mr. Briggs—the letters on Interior Department stationery—to Mr. Sparks.

Mr. Briggs said that two of the eight letters read by Senator Langer were authentic.

Inserted in Record.

One of the eight letters said Mr. Ickes was at one time in possession of the alleged Hopkins letter, which was addressed to Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist

(Continued on Page A-11, Column 1)

(Continued From First Page.)

University, Dallas, Tex., who is now in Washington. Mr. Ickes said:

"I don't know who will ultimately turn out to be the villain in the 'Hopkins letter' thriller, but it will not be I."

Mr. Briggs said a pamphlet he wrote in 1940 critical of Mr. Willkie was the foundation for the anti-Willkie book by Mr. Sparks. Mr. Briggs met Mr. Sparks during the 1940 pre-convention campaign, when Mr. Sparks was campaign manager for Frank Gannett, Rochester (N. Y.) publisher, who sought the Republican nomination, and Mr. Briggs was a publicity writer for Mr. Gannett.

Reviews Correspondance.

Mr. Briggs, 55, went to work at the Interior Department in 1941. His job there is to review correspondence to be signed by Mr. Ickes. Born in Dixon, Ill., he is a former newspaperman who worked on the Chicago Tribune, the old Chicago Examiner and the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Mr. Briggs said his 1940 anti-Willkie pamphlet charged that offers were made by representatives of Mr. Willkie to purchase delegations to the Republican Convention of that year. This charge, with specific reference to the Arizona delegation, is made by Mr. Sparks in his book.

Mr. Briggs said he did not know Dr. Lee, who has testified before the grand jury and is staying at the Raleigh Hotel. The grand jury is expected to hear more witnesses in the Hopkins letter case tomorrow. Dr. Lee denied receiving the letter.

Demands Investigation.

Senator Langer sought to trace the "Hopkins letter's" peregrinations through the correspondence which he read on the Senate floor yesterday in a renewal of his demand that Mr. Willkie's 1940 nomination be investigated.

The gist of the Langer recital—all promptly denied by Mr. Ickes and other principals—was this:

That Mr. Hopkins wrote to Dr. Lee last fall predicting Mr. Willkie would be the Republican choice again this year and promising "good co-operation from that quarter."

That Mr. Briggs made a trip to the Southwest in an attempt to obtain the letter.

That the letter subsequently was forwarded here by a man identified by Senator Langer as Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.

"I understand," Senator Langer told the Senate, "that this Mr. Frank Phillips of Oklahoma was a friend of Secretary Ickes, whom it appears Mr. Briggs was to get the letter from."

In New York, Mr. Phillips said last night, "I played no part in this affair. I never knew there was such a letter until I read about it in the papers.

"I don't know Hopkins, Lee or