Now, after the shot was fired, it was just a matter of uh of uh several minutes, a minute or two, before the police got out on Mulberry Street. When when Stevens opened his window and heard all the commotion out on Mulberry Street, he raised the window and was looking out, some policemen ran up on the street out on Mulberry and told everybody to get their heads back in. At that time, Stevens came back to this, to his front room and walked out this door and saw the person who he identified as, although he could not see his face, he identified him as being the same person, as far as he could tell, from clothing, height and so forth, as the person who had rented the room, saw him walking in this direction with a large bundle under his arm.
