

hello.

with all good wishes,
I write this prior to mailing, with high hopes that your health improves markedly, Mr. Weisberg.

I just wanted to add this because as per
several weekends, lately,
and as well as in months
past for several years, I have been subject to psychological if not real terrors. Four ago was no exception.

It was my belief that the "weather" people were intricately associated with the Warbells, etc - But I sent what I considered information to Mr. Bates's office at time of Hearst (over pls.)

chase or whatever, but received no answers of course. I read in the news he is ^{now} having to scrupulously care for his heart condition, so on, and I sympathize utterly; I'm not sure he is retired. He has my prayers as do all like him.

well. This or a.
shortly prior to 2, my landlady's phone commenced ringing. She was on a partying excursion. At nearly 78, she's stronger in that respect than "young".

well, I couldn't get to it through the heavily locked door in the immediate area and so waited "patiently"

"patiently" while it kept on nearly an hour, so then walked a few blocks to a pay phone to "struggle" with hdgr, and that's what it amounted to. Finally,
an opr. replied. She said
"I'd have to call my supervisor" and then the phone rang, wouldn't stop, so finally I pushed down the holder - it kept ringing. But finally I got in contact with her.
Her voice was the same
but she wouldn't admit to being same one. But after some cajoling from me because I was worried, seeing someone (a) calling at mercy of the aggressive!

shays
of us
the
many of us

from the other end, then forced to drop the phone and then the ringing continued unabatedly.

Fao, operators, etc.,
had been threatening strikes

So, she gave me a number which I dialed and got a repairman who said the ringing had stopped at 908 W. 2nd, etc.

So, I went on and
here was my land lord lady, and she couldn't find out who it had been calling.

So, I'm wait in suspense, still.

P.S.

Best to you.

Soon, I'll
order your
books

I fear there's conspiracy to make
some
stake!
