Miss Hearst accused her father, newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst, of trying to "deceive the people."

"You said you are concerned with my life and the lives and interests of all oppressed people . . . but you are a liar in both areas, and as a member of the ruling class, I know your interests and Mom's are never the interests of the people."

Steve Weed, Miss Hearst's finance, said he does not believe the words were of her own choosing. The Associated Press quoted a family spokes-

"I just sort of expected something like this," Weed said. "It made me very nervous, the way everybody was celebrating last night."

The tape, which runs about 40 minutes, concludes with the voice of SLA "Field Marshal Cinque," who has spoken for the SLA in previous commu-

Cinque, identified by former associates as escaped convict Donald Degreeze, said Miss Hearst "has been freed, but has refused to go home or take part as a member of the enemy fascist state. There is no further need to discuss the release of the prisoner . . . Since the prisoner is now a comrade and is being accepted into the ranks of the people's army as a comrade and a fighter for the people's freedom.

"And therefore," Cinque continued, "there is no further basis for negotiations since the subject may leave whenever she feels that she wishes to do so. She is armed and well capable to defend her-self." The SLA leader said that "all combat forces are of the SLA and all people's forces are requested and so ordered to resume combat."

Miss Hearst, who spoke for about eight minutes, told her fiancee, "I have been given the choice of one, being released in a safe area, or two, joining the forces of the SLA and fighting for my freedom and the freedom of all oppressed people. I have chosen to stay and fight."

The tape also contained two other voices, the first, of what seemed to be a white male, was identified by Washington Post sources as William Harris, 27, who apparently went underground with his wife, Emily, on Jan. 10, the day Joseph Romero and Russell Little were arrested in connection with the SLA's Nov. 6 "execution" of Oakland school Supt. Marcus Foster. The two

The other voice was said by a KSAN spokesman to have identified herself as Fahizah, the SLA code-name for Nancy Ling Perry, who previously has spoken for the organization.

She announced, "Now, once again, the people have brought forth another prophet and leader. This leader called not to beg and plead with the enemy, he comes not to warn of violence, but is himself the bringer of the children of the wind and the sound of war."

Apparently, she was introducing Cinque whose voice followed to conclude the tape.

Suspicions that Miss Hearst was originally involved with the SLA or had somehow "switched over" to it were first aroused she made on by KSAN on
