Officials Still Studying Castro's Offer To Allow Cubans to Depart for U.S.

yesterday it is willing to give He added: that anyone who wished to "most careful consideration" "The terms of the proposal leave Cuba was free to do so. to Premier Fidel Castro's of and the form and the tone in Most of his remarks were ed States.

would have to be made whether Castro had been mak-would be allowed to go. through proper diplomatic ing anti-American propaganda McCloskey was asked what channels.

U.S. reply was intended to Cubans. gauge the seriousness and intended by Caston and the offer made by Caston by Castro's Tuesday ress. The United States, he tro in a Havana speech Tues-day night. Castro, these applied only to Cubans with sources said, is being told to relatives in the United States "put up or shut up."

In making the formal U.S. reply, State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey described the Cuban proposal

But, the State Department statement was puzzlement in also contained hints that othadded, the Cuban proposal U.S. diplomatic circles about ers opposed to his regime Diplomatic sources said this get rid of a large number of left the island in boats provid-

The State Department said as "vague and ambiguous." or whether he was implying that anyone who wished to fer to allow a large-scale mi- which it was presented raise coupled with references to gration of Cubans to the Unit-doubts about its seriousness." those with relatives in this Underlying McCloskey's country. However, his speech > or whether he really wants to would happen if some Cubans ed by the Castro government