

Museum Director Protests JFK Film

Post 6/25/77
DALLAS, June 24 (AP)—The director of a John F. Kennedy memorial museum located adjacent to the site of the President's assassination has filed a motion for an injunction to prevent a film crew from re-creating the shooting.

Museum director John Sessions had his lawyers file the motion today for a permanent injunction against Charles Fries Productions, Inc., which is based in Hollywood, Calif.

The company is producing a movie scheduled for showing on ABC-TV next fall entitled "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald." The Warren Commission said Oswald shot President Kennedy from a sixth-floor window of the Texas Schoolbook Depository Building on Nov. 22, 1963.

Sessions' motion said the blocking of all pedestrian traffic in the assassination area, which includes his museum, would substantially cut into his tourism business, especially on the July 4 holiday. The motion said this is traditionally one of the museum's busiest times.

About 70 per cent of the movie's production is being shot in the Dallas area, and plans call for scenes to be filmed July 3 and 4 of blank shots being fired from the depository building.

The movie, with a projected cost of $2 million, is supposed to depict what kind of trial Oswald might have had if he had not been shot two days after Kennedy's death.

A hearing on the motion was set for July 1 in Dallas.
