O.K.!

I mailed Register # 4885
and it should be postmarked
May 3, 1968 because I saw them stamp it myself. It's an old trick to have "soft" mail & get a later post mark on it.

I can't write

D

I'll call A.T. & T.

Keep writing it's good for the morale - namely mine

Tell your wife hello!

by Rose. D has never mentioned his name to me, although there is no reason for me to presume she does not know Jack. This slip indicates he phoned her the very moment the office opened the morning after she got there. With the disappearance of my pocket phone book trip before last, I cannot place the number he left, but it is familiar. You'll probably recognize it. That he knew her is less significant than that he knew her connection and how to reach her, or that he wanted to. The second slip indicates a call from Ellis at the home station and shows she knew his phone number. There is a federal operation at 600 South. I assume this is Ellis from the identical initials. His right name is Ellison or Elliston, I am told. BOQ represents bachelor officers' quarters, where I was told she was when she phoned me the night of 4/22, i.e., assigned there.

All of this represents a little too much to expect a single young person to manufacture. You form your own opinion. When you identify the phone Jack used, please tell me. I've lost his.

If you have found the picture I told you was missing from my case, let me know, because I am told I will be told about that. I have a suspicion I have already indicated.

I have a copy of the Bringuier suit. It seems identical with the old one except that there is a special note on serving me on which I have already commented. This amounts to a threat intended to keep me out of New Orleans. If you have the papers, see the capital letters at the bottom of page 5.

If my wife finishes the Boatright transcript in time, which is possible, I'll enclose a copy for Moo and will send him one for any corrections or annotations he'd care to make. I will then send you the corrected copy after I pick them up on my copy.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg

Dear Lou,

Something I haven't been able to get around to that I hope you can regard as a priority item is this: When I was there in Nov. I had a long phone conversation with Mrs. Verniglia. She then promised to make available the data she had, including what she has on the men of the Davis camp. This should include at least their names. She tried to keep files on all the men she helped, and this could include pictures. I would like a list of the names as soon as possible and copies of any of the pictures. After a phone call, it might be that just sending someone out to pick this up is all that would be required. I still think I should see her and want to, if possible on this trip, but I should know what she has on the camp and its personnel before that anyway.

With the official interest that seems to have been manifested in my recent work I also fear that something might happen to her files, if it hasn't already. It would also be good to ask her if she knows of anyone else who might have knowledge of the camp and its men besides Bringuier and his crew.

While I was writing this the mail came, with a letter and a registered letter, copies of which are enclosed. Please keep these securely to yourself and try and do what you can to see to it that there is no talk and no knowledge not essential.

In the verbal description, I was told that the long, printed form (this and all others are photostats but I'm promised the originals is punched at the top for a binder. You can see the top is folder over. The face of the envelope is on this sheet. There is no reason to presume delay in mail because it was not sent airmail. The other sheet represents the other enclosures. These were all on a single piece of photostat paper. I have compared the edges. Two of them were never mentioned to me earlier. I attribute significance to this, particularly because of their dates. The handwriting cannot be that of my source, a sample of which is enclosed and is self-explanatory.

In connection with the things I told you on my last trip, part of which I also told Jim, I saw a man with the same initial and identical last name on my last trip and he knew what Jim didn't from your office and no other source on the Z material carried to you by hand
