Nixon Urges Hill Guest to Take Star

By Jack Anderson

Over brandy and a cigar cent," he urged, "vote against ate."

vote for impeachment. They world leaders. could explain they didn't mean an overwhelming House vote in dinner cruise. favor of impeachment. The psychological impact, he is said to about running Secretary of 50-50 chance of an agreement." feel, could influence senators to State Henry Kissinger for the

He assured them that he has dent speculated gleefully. cooperated as far as he could with the House Judiciary Comwhich might damage U.S. rela- House.

Itions with other nations, he; said.

aboard the presidential yacht a number of private conversasequoia, President Nixon aptions with other heads of state.
pealed to a dozen conservative It would seriously violate interJohn Sparkman (D-Ala.) would

On the other hand, he said, the state chairman. As next in line, Sen.
John Sparkman (D-Ala.) would

American President more "ma-

The President's shipboard impeachment in the House. dinner companions were too po-Don't pass the buck to the Sen- lite to ask how these conversations could be compromised by He reportedly fears many con- release of the Watergate tapes. gressmen may try to get off the Presumably, he didn't discuss hook by casting a procedural his Watergate woes with other new Senate Banking chairman.

The President, obviously to judge the President but cheered by the success of peace merely wanted to bring the case negotiations in the Middle East, before the Senate for a decision. was in a bantering, buoyant This rationale could produce mood throughout the three-hour

He joked with his guests vote to remove him from office. | Senate. Kissinger could be So as the Sequoia cruised groomed for the seat of retiring Middle East. down the rain-swept Potomac, Sen. Norris Cotton (R-N.H.), and the President asked his conserv- a bipartisan campaign could be exander Haig, the President ative House friends to settle the organized to make Kissinger cracked: "If those cables could Relations Committee, the Presi-

The President gloated over subservant to the Politburg He explained that he had had bright (D-Ark.), which will relicans realize. to take a stand on impeachment. these conversations should be ing Committee chairmanship to leaders possess.

"If you believe I am inno-divulged." leaders possess. Earlier in the which he has now said he will dent, what can we do for you?" do. And this would make Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) the

"Those bankers are beside of themselves," chortled Mr. Nixon. "The bankers don't want Proxmire."

Speaking seriously, Mr. Nixon | tion's biggest headache. told his dinner guests that two days before the Syrian-Israeli

Kissinger had sent from the Turning to his staff chief, Alquite a book, wouldn't they?"

He suggested that the re-forthcoming summit meeting sourceful Kissinger, as a Senate with Leonid Brezhnev in Mosmittee, which is inquiring into chairman, might even be able to cow. The President said he lease tapes and documents, tween the Senate and the White negotiate than would Brezhnev. The Soviet leader is far more the defeat of Sen. J. W. Ful-said Mr. Nixon, than most Amer-congressmen the other evening national protocol, he said, if have to give up the Senate Bank- neuvering room" than other Earlier in the evening, Rep. The President said he hoped Gillespie Montgomery (D-Miss.) Sparkman will choose the For-eign Relations chairmanship, magnanimously: "Mr. Presi-

The President responded to this offer by urging his conservative guests to support his veto "irresponsible spending bills." Government spending was spurring inflation, he said. which could become the na-

He also admonished them not to let the Pentagon sell them a truce, "I wouldn't have given a military force superior to that of the Soviets. "All we need is to He told of the dramatic cables be equal," said the President. "Don't you guys let the military push you into superiority."

Footnote: The President served chateaubriand, with mushrooms, peas and a spaimpeachment issue in the chairman of the Senate Foreign be published, they would make ghetti dish. He also passed out Sequoia matchbooks, which he He was optimistic about his autographed. This was the second time in two weeks that he has taken conservative congressmen on a dinner cruise as impeachment. He couldn't re- negotiate peaceful relations be- would have more flexibility to part of his effort to gain support against impeachment.

c1974, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.