The equation written above is a sociological equation. It cannot be quantitized, but is very useful indeed for an understanding of what is going on in our current society.

It will account for our appalling levels of poverty and ill health in this country as well as the necessity for the conduct of a war in Vietnam directed against the civilian population, for the most part, when - by the very nature of things a military solution of the problem in Vietnam is impossible.

There would be little point in calling attention to problems if no solution were to be proposed. Fortunately, and understanding of the equation $S + CS = D$ will provide us with a very satisfactory and very simple solution.

We have money - we have people - and we have results.

In the equation, S stands for "system" meaning the "price" or "money" system of economic life.

CS stands for "counter system". This arises from the very nature of the "price" system, which is built on profit alone, and has no concern for human life or human rights at all.

This is not meant as a criticism of the "price" system. It is just a fact.

This fact is recognized by some, and leads to the development of the "counter system" which is the attempt of this group to include human life and welfare (usually their own, and nobody else's - either as individuals or as a group of individuals banded together such as labor unions, the AMA or the American Bar Association) in the whole complex.

Organized crime is only a bit more of an extreme example of this same mechanism of the "counter system". At least organized crime does not have to pretend that they are a group acting in the public welfare, so are more honest than the multitude of other CS individuals or organizations who find it necessary to spread lies and misinformation in the interests of their own "survival".

Of course, spreading lies and misinformation is not survival activity, so leads to the D part of the equation which stands for DEATH.

Now, you may think this a bit extreme.

So we can take it slow and easy and derive our picture by degrees from the very early stages. This would be the "information that is bad so we do not say anything about it out loud" category.

Bad for who? Well friend, bad for business because it is bad for you so you had just as well not know anything about it.

See "Fact" magazine. Volume 1, Issue 6 of November-December 1964. The one with the big spread on the front of the magazine that reads "Coca-Cola can cause tooth decay, headaches, acne, nephritis, nausea, delirium, heart disease, and ect - - - - -."

Also March-April 1964. The article "The Great Smokescreen" by Arthur E. Rowse on page 3. The one with the spread on top "An editor of the Washington Post tells how fear of reprisal by tobacco advertisers kept newspapers from publicizing the link between smoking and cancer for 25 years."

Also see any copy of the magazine put out to the public by the AMA called "Today's Health". In pretty near every issue there is a full page add in color on the inside front cover by Coca-Cola and another in full color on the inside of the back cover by Pepsi-Cola.

The leading society of American nutritionists, the American Dietetic Association, will not run Coca-Cola ads in it's official journal and forbids Coca-Cola exhibits at it's conventions.

So we put money (price economics) up against people (trying to survive in business) and reap the output. From which we derive $S+CS = D$.

$S + CS = D$ is the Great American Credit/Slavery/Death Machine. But, you see, nobody has put this together in the right order before. You can holler about the "rat race" and you can holler about the Great American Credit/Slavery/Death Machine (GACSDM) but you cannot do an damn thing till you use scientific method and see what generates what.

When we talk about scientific method, we are going into an area that is alien to the average system of thought.

The average citizen has to take science on faith. You see, science is really religion. So it is real easy.

How do you determine the true faith?

Well, friend, truth is the highest possible form of religion/science.

So, we have money - we have people - and we have results.

The process of scientific reasoning is inductive thinking. This means you reason from observed effects (results) backward to probable cause.

So let us take results.

From the book, "Our Depleted Society" by Seymour Melman we have "In 1963, the United States reached the position of operating the oldest stock of metal-working machinery of any industrial country in the world. In 1964, the United States attained the distinction of operating the world's oldest oil-tanker fleet. In 1963, the infant mortality rate in the United States ranked about 12th among countries of the world. Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Republic of Korea, Lebanon, Netherlands, and New Zealand were among the countries with better records. The United States has tolerated unemployment rates which in other countries would generate crises of confidence in their governments. The Federal Government's Selective Service Administration, since the Second World War, has maintained a set of minimum standards, physical and educational, for acceptability of men into the armed forces. By these standards, 30% of the young men examined by Selective Service during the Second World War were rejected. Twenty years later, in 1963, the same standards produced a rejection rate averaging 50%."

Well, these are the results.

So we reason backward from these results, which clearly show a non-survival trend (D) and are left with the interaction of money and people as the probable cause. This we express as S + CS.

A good illustration of the operation of the S + CS complex is the information in the speech in the "Congressional Record" Vol. 112, No. 169 of Wednesday, October 5, 1966. This speech is by Senator Edward V. Long of Missouri and is titled "Is The Food and Drug Administration Hamstringing cancer Research?"

Here we see the National Cancer Institute has been granted approximately one half billion dollars in a decade for research into a cancer cure with no significant results.

Yet, we find that Dr. Max Gerson, M.D. presented five (5) restored cancer patients to the Pepper-Neely cancer sub-committee in the United States Senate in July, 1946.

About ten years before the half billion dollars was poured down the rat hole of the National Cancer Institute.

The operation of the S + CS complex is shown in the speech in the "Congressional Record" by Senator Long where we see the criminal elements in the F & DA working hand in glove with the corresponding elements in the NCI.

You can see them blocking the work of Dr. F. L. Shively, Sr., of Dayton, Ohio.

Dr. Shively was using the slow infusion of enzymes in the treatment of cancer, and getting very favorable results.

Dr. Max Gerson's cancer therapy of twenty years before was also the use of enzymes, but was dietary - relying on the use of large quantities of fresh liver juice (a good source of enzymes - as the liver is a regular enzyme factory) for the enzyme source.

A doctor C. J. Michet when he was medical director of the Cancer Research Foundation of the Holy Cross Hospital in Chicago obtained the same remarkable results as Dr. Shively and also used the infusion of enzymes. This is reported in the "Congressional Record" of Friday, October 14, 1966 by Senator Long.

So we find that real solutions are not tolerated, as a real solution will contribute to increased efficiency, and increased efficiency means loss of jobs.

So progress in the direction of human welfare and happiness is fought. Not by the so called "money powers" as some like to think - but by the people themselves protecting some self interest at the expense of others.

So fear of loss of job and income generates the "rat race" the "jungle" the GACSDM.

And means that anyone trying to help humanity in any way is going to be crucified as dangerous to the "economy" (ugh!). It would "wreck the economy" the CS boys say.

A cancer cure is only a small part of this.

The reason is that only one out of four American citizens is doomed to die a slow and horribly torturous death from cancer.

We are all going to die in the mushroom clouds of hydrogen bomb blasts before long if this nonsense is not stopped.

The way to stop it is to put into effect our very satisfactory and very simple solution.

All that is required is to realize that there is no magic in money - the magic is in people.

Money must be made the equivalent of goods in emerging economic orders; so as to aid in the rapid development of a high energy, efficient economy; and must be done away with in high energy economies like those of the United States, Europe and Russia.

The "money power" arises from the indestructable nature of the value of money, so that it acquires "value" over goods and is senior to goods. This means that we have the spectacle of goods chasing money in the market place and means that clever people can learn to use money - once they understand this "money power" for all kinds of evil doings.

The ones who understand money and the money power are the S group.

The CS group does not understand the nature of money and the money power, but has devised a very effective way of defending themselves against it and the members of the S group who use it.

When you have been in the position of a "trouble shooter", as I have been as a veterinarian trouble shooting large integrated poultry operations for the last six years, you work with both sides in order to effect a solution and come to a realization of the working mechanism of the $S + CS = D$ equation.

The essence of the working mechanism of the $S + CS = D$ system is impaired communication.

The boss must never know what is really going on in the operation. If the boss knew what was really going on there would be increased efficiency - and increased efficiency means the loss of jobs.

The boss represents the S part of the equation, or the so called "money power".

There is a different philosophy in the executive echelon than in the direct field operational echelon. It is quite similar to the difference in thinking between officers and enlisted men in the Army. Unless you have been both (as I have been) you would not be able to appreciate the difference in the thinking. It is not different in degree, but different in kind.

The executive is charged with the job of running an efficient segment of the business. As such he must endeavour to introduce cost cutting elements into the operation.

Some cost cutting elements are alright with the working staff, as long as they do not have the effect of eliminating jobs.

An example would be the introduction of a different system of handling things so as to cut the amount of labor time down.

The boss figures each job - or I should say - task, as costing so much in terms of labor time. This is in spite of the fact that the worker is going to be on the job for 8 hours a day anyway. However, this makes sense in that the worker is going to either have to do something while on the job or else pretend to be working. It is a lot harder to pretend to be working than it is to really work.

Also, it is in the nature of the human being to want to work at some constructive task. The human being is made to work and wants to work. Unfortunately, under a "price" system of economics this capacity of the human to work is largely blunted, thwarted and made into a sort of suffering. So much so that many look on work as being equivalent to suffering. They think if they are engaged in a pleasant, productive task that it is "not work" because it is enjoyable.

Enjoyable work is the exception, not the rule, in this society ruled by the $S + CS = D$ law.

Perhaps the best example of harmful and destructive work is the current war in Vietnam.

Here, we see the $S + CS = D$ equation in full flower. Communication is impaired by the rendering of false reports. The S boys, who sit at the top and must, under any circumstances not know what is really going on are fed reports of bombing forays with no mention that the bombers were only half loaded with bombs in order to report a large number of planes in action. This, of course, means more staff, more jobs and higher ratings from the increased size of the operation.

The bombings, of course, are effective mostly against the civilian population and have little or no military effect.

The height of insanity and cruelty is the use of poison sprays on the crops of the Viet Cong. Starvation is effective first on infants and growing children, then pregnant women, and finally last, on adult men such as compose the fighting force.

There is no military solution to the problem in Viet Nam, short of killing off the entire population.

Of course, since this is the most expensive and least efficient way of handling the situation in Viet Nam, it will follow that since it provides jobs and income for many that the war in Viet Nam will be escalated.

There is, of course, no possible moral justification for war.

But, to allow Viet Nam to fall into the hands of either an unfriendly government or an unfriendly major power would seriously weaken the position of the United States in Southeast Asia. The ruling consideration is practical geopolitics.

Russian policy has not changed since the time of Catherine the Great. It has been, and still is, to expand to the shores of the Pacific on all fronts.

American policy has not changed since the time of William McKinley. It is to secure the Western Hemisphere, make the Pacific Ocean an American lake, and will have to deny control in this area to any potential aggressor.

It is likely that the Viet Cong movement will be, if not already, taken over by a communist element, and that in the event of a victory or pull out of United States power in this area will take over the entire country of Viet Nam.

We have already established a guide to action in Viet Nam which we know will work.

We conquered the Phillipines, then gave the country back to the native population. A marvelous policy, as people will fight to defend what is theirs.

And we did about the same thing with Japan.

In other words, the unbeatable policy which will always win is to make your enemies your friends by helping them.

This can be done in Viet Nam by setting up the entire part of the country under United States control as an economy with free land and free money according to the principles of the economist Silvio Gesell. Gesell's system has been used in other parts of the world and works. It is perfectly suited to an emerging economy, but not well suited to a high energy economy such as we have in the United States, Western Europe and in Russia.

For those who wish a technical outline of Gesell's system, write to The Free Economy Assn., 2618 E. 54th Street, Huntington Park, CA 90255 and ask for a list of their publications and the price of the book, "The Natural Economic Order" by Silvio Gesell.

Gesell's system would make the $S + CS = D$ equation unworkable, as it is based on making money the exact equivalent of goods through depreciating money.

Gesell's system is an improvement on the system we have in the world today. It is not any kind of "ism" but is plain common sense. Gesell exposes some of the fallacies of Karl Marx in his works.

Many think that the only alternative to the "price" system or "capitalism" is socialism or communism. This is not true. As a matter of fact both socialism and communism have the same defect at their base as capitalism, and that is a failure to recognize the key role of money in an economy.

A bill was introduced into the United States Senate in the 1930's by Senator William Bankhead which was to introduce the key element of the Gesellian system to the U. S. but did not get far due to opposition from the finance powers.

Every dollar coming into existence is a borrowed dollar paying interest (which is theft).

Gesell's system of depreciating money would lead to the disappearance of interest, so is opposed to those who profit by the stolen labor of those who work to pay the interest on the created money we use in our current "price" system of economics.

If you have ever been in business under our "price" system you will discover how many times you cannot install a productive improvement because the amount it will return about breaks even with the interest cost of borrowing the money to pay for it.

Of course, we can thank the "price" system of economics for accelerating the growth of productive capacity due to the intense pressure of the "price" system to the point where we can now have a sensible economy with attention to human values and abundance for all.

This is outlined in William Dudley Pelley's book, "No More Hunger".

You can get this book for $2.00 from either the Treasure Chest Book Shop, 1281 Maroa Avenue, Fresno, CA 93728 or from Aquila Press, P. O. Box 252, Noblesville, IN 46060.

This outlines a program that will be easily put into effect, causes no loss or harm to anyone and can not be sensibly opposed by anyone with good motives. The only possible opposition would be from the criminal element in our society.

Please get the book and study it, and you will see for yourself.

This is the Christian Commonwealth, and will allow the society of a really free people to emerge from this present slave society. It rewards individual initiative and will punish no one.

We will replace the $S + CS = D$ system with its product of wars, misunderstandings, crimes, poverty, unemployment, depressions and other assorted ills of humanity - including poor health (because there is money in sick people) - with the $CC = L$ of the Christian Commonwealth. The Christian Commonwealth equals Life.

Money, as such, is not used under the Christian Commonwealth system. Credits are used in place of money, but these credits cannot be hoarded, lent or stolen.

This may seem odd to most people, but they do not realize that money as we know it is a false God. The magic is in people, not money.

This has been experimentally proved by actual experience in cooperative communities, and by actual societies that have flourished in the past.

The Inca economy which served as the base for the supposedly fictitious work "Utopia" by Sir Thomas Moore did not use money. Money was unknown to them.

Many marvel at the terrace work these people did. Why, it would cost so much in terms of money to do this work that the interest on the investment would have made it impossible to come out on the sale of the produce from much of this terraced land.

But, dear friend, the conservation and increase of the natural resources of the country was the foundation of Inca national policy. Not "profit".

So the country was run for the benefit of the people in it.

As ours should be. And will be.
