Dear Chip,

While your show may make it clear in other ways, the interview of me does not make it clear, as I recall, that the prosecution was state, not federal. In fairness to the FBI I think it should be made clear that the prosecution itself was state and not federal. That the state was captive to the FBI is another matter.

Thinking back over the interview, which was fairly long, I can't recall a single silly or irresponsible question. I attribute that to your preparation. Good for you to have become that well informed!

I doubt this will be true of the coming HBO show. Which I won't see, not having cable.

Yours was a very good crew. We've even had to clean up after some.

I've gotten the report on the X-rays. They show one and possibly two polyps.

Before I got ~~that~~ that delayed report I made an appointment for later this morning to see a local hematologist. I think he'll refer me to Johns Hopkins. If he does not I'll make my own arrangements.

If I'd listened to the local internist who was going to give me a colonoscopic examination a week ago Monday he'd have had that instrument as much as six feet inside me when my blood test had me at the point of spontaneous hemorrhaging! The slightest incident could then have been a catastrophe. The drastically reduced dosage of anticoagulant now has the blood clotting too fast. But the doctor is being cautious, increasing the dosage very gradually. I anticipate another increase after today's test. And wonder with the weather report if I'll be able to get out for Friday's. We had a six-inch snow after you left and the lane, shaded as it is, is ice with slippery tracks in it. I can use it but a snow with the road snow thrown against the end of the lane when I can't shovel any more confines us until we can get dug out or there is a thaw.

I did appreciate a good, honest and informed interview, one in which I was not having to keep trying to keep the questions fair and accurate.

Our best to you all,

Reusing paper has been my minor contribution to saving trees and energy. I have so much with the new book I am now using it for more than rough drafts. The entire large book I've just finished drafting is on used paper.
