Dear Steve Vogel,

Your audience is one of the more responsive!

I'm still hearing from them, probably from some to whom your regular listeners have spoken.

Today there was a nice note from a woman in Hudson who has been combing the book stores for it in a futile way. Alas, it just isn't in the stores, much as I would like that.

She wants the book for Xmas, a present for her husband. I'm sending it Special Handling. Under normal conditions, that should do it. But at Xmas, who knows?

If there is further discussion, I would appreciate it and I think it would be helpful to those who ^{want} the book for them to know that as of now it is available from me only and that by regular mail the total cost is $6.25.

I do hope that those who have gotten and read the book will share their views, whatever they may be, with others.

Talk shows today are, in my experience and belief, the closest thing there can be to the old town meeting concept.

The country needs more of this.

Thanks for everything.

Best regards,

Harold Weisberg
