Dear Anna Marie,

I was disappointed not hearing from you after your move and not getting what you said you would send me. But I assumed that was your wish so I accepted it.

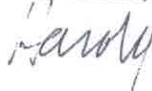

I write you now for a different reason. Never Again! has finally appeared. I'd asked for enough copies to be able to send one to many to whom I wanted to send copies. I got about a third of what I needed and my repeated requests for the other copies are ignored.

The request for copies for a press conference has been ignored for close to a month so there has been no press conference.

If you do not have a copy of NEVER AGAIN! please let me know as soon as you can while I am still able to send you one. If you did not have I want to send it. But if you do have it I'll be able to give that one to someone else.

By accident the index was omitted. It had been set in type but it had not been corrected. I enclose a copy of that so if you have the book you'll have the index and if you do not I'll not be forgetting to send you one.

Best Wishes,

Harold Weisberg
