WARREN IN ISRAEL

"I would not care to comment on it," Mr. Warren said and added, "You'll find almost anything written in our country about any public matter." Then, apparently feeling that he should say more, Mr. Warren explained:

"We wrote our report—it was."

"We wrote our report—it was the best we could do after ten months of intensive research months of intensive research—and we delivered to the National Archives every document that we had, every working paper and the differences of opinion in staff and ourselves as we went along.

"It would be easy for anyone who wanted to find some adverse conclusion to find differences of opinion, but that was our conclusion, it was unanimous, it was the best work we could do in ten months.

Mr. Warren, who headed an investigation into Mr. Kennedy's assassination, will lead a delegation of Israeli officials and American donors in paying homage to Mr. Kennedy on a site in the barren Judean Hills several miles southwest of Jerusalem.

Fifteen minutes after his arrival from London, Mr. Warren was questioned about the commission's findings. He was asked at the airport to comment on a recently published book that suggests the autopsy was revised to conform to the theory that one assassin killed Mr. Kennedy.
