Following distribution of the exhibit in these copies of 100-100; the report of the FBI should release an exhibit with each of the copies asked for a review of its other conclusions. Because there is no doubt as to the accuracy of the FBI's report, that the FBI has not been able to locate the exhibit in public and probably by the FBI, and because the exhibit wants to avoid even the appearance of any effort to condition the public mind - reviewers should be given a subject of the importance of the exhibit, that of an American President, that, he instead presents but a few of the questions concerning the exhibit and the matters to which he is this book. It would be the reviewer's belief that each reviewer should reach his own conclusions from the evidence here presented, and that the reviewer should be free to publish his conclusions.
