Dear Cyril,

In recent years more than in the past things tend to accumulate on my desk.

Then, periodically, when I have something to do for which I want the desk clear, I do clear it up.

Today I find your kind letter of July 23. So, belatedly, thanks for your good wishes.

There is more to the story of the "get Weisberg" crew at Justice than I mentioned. Jim Lesar got some but far from all of their internal memos in a lawsuit, under discovery.

It is frightening, isn't it? It says what we knew, if you remember the book, It Can Happen Here.

You misunderstood something I wrote or I wasn't clear in what I said. You said, "If your urologist recommends a TUR to avoid significant complications, it would be wise to have it done."

After my experience with the urologist I've not returned to him. But I see the family doctor regularly, I ~~was~~ told him of the symptoms that indicate that the TUR will have to be repeated soon, and he did not recommend that I go to another local urologist or see one at Hopkins.

I presume you are aware of the Ricky White story. It is a complete fabrication and I regret very much that Bud once again got involved in something he should have had the good sense to avoid. If he'd done any real checking he'd have found it obvious that the whole thing is made up, with some unique plagiarisms.

Best wishes,

Harold

Dear Harold:

The story about the DJ's Weisberg "hit crew" is fascinating and paradoxically humorous and frightening at the same time.

If your urologist recommends a TUR to avoid significant complications, it would be wise to have it done.

In the meantime, I hope that you will continue to regain your strength during the remainder of the summer.

With kind regards.

Sincerely,
