Dear Cyril,

If you have not received the copy of my brief and copies of the documents in the record that I used please let me know and I'll mail you another set. I did mail you these the Saturday before Labor Day and I mailed it at the main local post office. You should have received them before you wrote me on the 26th.

I would like to know what you think of it and of the response of the other side is. I'll send that to you as soon as I get it. Thanks for the offer. It can be quite helpful.

In Robinson v Pleet Robinson refused to file the certificate of merit and instead argued she was being denied a Constitutional right. The appeals court held against her. So, I could not dare argue denial of a Constitutional right before the same court. But I tried to get inside that house through the back door in alleging that the Act discriminates against the elderly and the poor who can't show significant losses. I do think that the Act denies equal justice under law to many people and I hope the court takes note of how, without denial, it acted in my case. The first firm that spelled it out to me is the first firm you suggested I speak to, in Rockville, and I regret that they cancelled the appointment to see me but I do respect and appreciate their honesty.

What the rotten adventures like that of the Whites does is exactly as you say, it destroys all credibility. and it is worse when those prominently identified as critics, like Bud and his Dallas center, support the frauds. This makes the assault on all credibility even more significant and hurtful.

Mrs. Geneva White's adventure was even more of a fiasco. She forged notes she attributed to Roscoe and used a felt-tipped pen, which had not been invented by the time he died. She also faked his reference to a message he'd received having him having noted that "they" wanted him for "Watergate". Which didn't come for another seven years!

I understand the Texas Observer is doing a story. It should be both side-splitting and painful at the same time.

Thanks and best wishes,

Harold Weisberg

Dear Harold:

I appreciate your additional comments concerning the Ricky White matter. It is too bad that his story is not true. The damage this kind of charade does to our cause is substantial.

I shall look through your brief. Please let me know what their response is, and I will give you my thoughts at that time if you wish.

I have not received anything from Nigel Turner. If he sends me a cassette, I shall make a copy for you.

With kind regards.

Sincerely,

Cyril H. Wecht, M.D., J.D.
