Dear Cyril,

Thanks for your kind words in your 8/17.

And for your efforts to tell people about Case Open.

It seems to be doing well despite no ads or promotions and my mail on it is really fine. With as yet no letup in it.

On the changes Posner made in his paperback, I have a friend who thinks he can get a story placed on it if he has details. I've written several people and asked them to send anything they spot to Jerry Agel, 2 Peter Cooper Road, NYC, NY 10010 and to say it is at my suggestion.

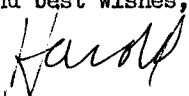

All Posner can do is eliminate the relatively minor errors he made, many as they are.

He cannot change the basic and intended dishonesty of his book. I regret so much that most of what I wrote was axed, I suppose to make a smaller book that could be sold for less because it is on his prosecution case that I really took him apart.

Pub date is next month but the paperback was on sale in NYC last week. When he phoned me about something else Roger Feinman told me he had merely skimmed a copy. He did say that the reports that he had heard and I also had, that Posner was adding an attack, mostly on me and with Livingstone's help, at the end, is not so. Roger says he has an intro to that edition with a few cracks, like I am "vindictive."

As of day before yesterday no copies had reached Frederick. I think that two of the stores I asked will call me when they have it. One is going to display it and mine with a notice telling prospective purchasers to decide which is true and honest.

Thanks and best wishes,

Harold Weisberg

Dear Harold:

Thank you for your gracious comments concerning my remarks about the O. J. Simpson case on national TV programs. Coming from someone with your known candor and experience, such remarks are very meaningful.

I hope some of the people I have referred to you do follow through in obtaining your book and contacting you regarding Posner. I wonder if he and his publisher will have done anything to effectuate changes in the paperback version of his book that is to be published next month. We shall soon see.

With kind regards.

Sincerely,

Cyril H. Wecht, M.D., J.D.
