Free Editorial Publicity

Hundreds of magazines and trade journals published in the USA today are amenable to accepting free editorial advertising for your product. By addressing a letter, circular and photo of your product to the editors of these magazines, in the form of a "news release" you will stand a good chance of obtaining some of this "free advertising".

A good glossy photo of your product is absolutely essential. Your letter, which accompanies the photo, should describe your product well. Include the name of the product, gen. description retail price ect. BE PERSISTENT Submit your release through the editors of the magazines listed. You will not of course be accepted by all of them---but even if you land a mention in a few it will result in hundreds of orders.

a 424 pg. directory available through Bacon CO# 14 E. Jackson Blvd. Chicago, Ill. 60604 lists names & addresses of over 3,700 publications in 99 market groups. Write for current prices. It is called Bacon's Publicity Checker and is rapidly becoming the standard guide for sending out publicity releases to obtain free magazine advertising.
