Dear Mr. Weisberg:

In response to my many letters and telephone calls Stephen Gross finally agreed with me that he should repay his client's share of the New Orleans legal fees. However, he has stated that he will make no payment until he is in receipt of a General Release running from you to his client. With this in mind, I am enclosing two copies of a Release which he prepared for your signature and ask that you sign the ribbon copy, have it notarized and return it to me. I will hold this Release in escrow pending receipt by me of a sum of money satisfactory to you and representing Gambi's share of legal fees. This money will be paid over to you by Dell as soon as received.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Cordially,

DELL PUBLISHING CO., INC.
