

April 19, 1967

Mr. Jonathan Dolger
Managing Editor
Dell Publishing Co.,
750 Third Ave.,
New York, N.Y. 10017

Dear Mr. Dolger,

Thank you for the return of some of the photographs from WHITEWASH II; There are others, and I write you immediately to be certain they are not mislaid because your letter of April 14 says they are "no longer needed".

I would appreciate amplification of your comment that, "with regard to the index, it is the consensus of our sales and production departments that there will not be enough time to add it to subsequent printings of the book". Frankly, I cannot understand this, as it relates to subsequent printings of the book. I know, from my own experience, that on this subject an index vastly increases the attractiveness of the book, especially to institutions and the rather large number of people who have a very serious interest in this subject.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Weisberg

CC to John Han with rest of the material