Dear Steve:

Mr. Weisberg has already received several offers for the clothbound publication of Whitewash II. So far he has not pursued the offers as he has been waiting to hear from you.

He is quite anxious for the book to be published as soon as possible. Therefore, if he doesn't hear from you by November 12, he will assume that you are not interested and will pursue the other offers. Of course, since you have first and last refusal rights, he will give you an opportunity to match any offers he has decided to accept.

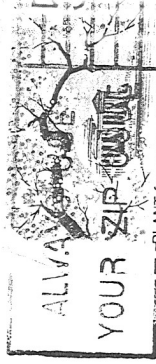

I hope that all is going well.

Yours Truly,

John S. Friedman
