

Welcome

Welcome to the first annual JFK Lancer "November In Dallas" Conference presenting Evidence of Conspiracy on the assassination of president John F. Kennedy and the wounding of Governor John Connally. For thirty three years after that horrible day citizens of the world have boldly come forward challenging the official story of how and why the assassination took place. In the words of JFK, "we do this not because it is easy, but because it is hard." It would be easy to be anywhere else but Dallas this week. But we have chosen to do what is hard. We have chosen to come to Dallas to show our commitment to the truth.

Our sincere appreciation to each you for your support, attendance and participation at the conference. Keep truth alive.

Featured Speakers

Keynote Speaker: We are pleased to have David Lifton as our Keynote speaker for the first "November In Dallas" Conference. David, with his impressive contributions to the case, will make a presentation you won't want to miss.

DAVID LIFTON, is a graduate of Cornell University's School of Engineering Physics (1962). He is the author of "Best Evidence: Disguise and Deception in the Assassination of President Kennedy", originally published in hardcover by Macmillan in 1981 at which time it was a Book of the Month Club Selection, and appeared on the New York Times best seller list for three months. It has had a most unusual publishing history, having been in print for 14 years, via a series of three publishers: Dell, in paperback (1982-88); Carroll and Graf, in trade paperback (1988-93); and currently New American Library. David Lifton is also the producer and writer of the "Best Evidence: The Research Video", which was released in 1989, is distributed by Rhino (via MCA) and has sold nearly 50,000 copies. Lifton has lectured widely on the subject of the medical evidence and its relationship to the issue of conspiracy in the Kennedy assassination. He recently testified before the Assassination Records and Review Board, where he donated a special 35mm copy of the Zapruder film to the National Archives, as well as many of the original interviews that were the basis for "Best Evidence". He is currently working on a biography of Lee Oswald.

Closing Speaker: Mary Ferrell's closing statement in 1994 at the 30th anniversary of the assassination is legendary. Be ready to be inspired.

MARY FERRELL, a former legal secretary, was at the opposite end of Elm Street at the time of the assassination in Dallas and began indexing the newspapers that day. Beginning with 3" x 5" slips of paper, she listed each person, what they saw, and where they were standing. Later, adding any other information she found. Soon she had thousands of "pieces of paper" indexing magazine articles, the few books that had been written, and all newspaper articles. In late 1966, Jim Garrison found out about Mary and referred her to another archivist whom she was able to share information with for the next seventeen years. This became Mary's database and she has never stopped adding to it. While she states that her work is never more important than the work of those who write books or articles, many would disagree. Without the contribution of Mary's information, many of the books read would be terribly incomplete. Mary's impact on this case is immeasurable.

Margaret Snyder (M.L.S.) and Arthur Snyder (PhD. in physics) will present findings on the "jet effect" first postulated by Luis Alvarez, and later embraced by John Lattimer, the House Committee and Gerald Posner. The jet effect seeks to explain the movement of the President's head toward the shooter in the Book Depository. We will discuss Alvarez's original calculations and show video of his experiments using a higher powered rifle and soft nosed ammunition. We will show video of experiments done by Dr. Doug DeSalles using the correct rifle and ammunition. We will present preliminary results of our own experiments using a variety of bullets (soft nosed and military jacketed) and rifles (30.06 and soft nosed). We have taken video of shots taken at various kinds of melons. The emerging pattern seems to be that frangible (hunting) bullets can produce the jet effect, but military (jacketed) bullets which Oswald supposedly used do not. Future experiments and issues to be addressed will be outlined.

The talk will show some experiments that show a jet affect and others that do not. It includes video of the following:

- the original Alvarez experiments
- Doug DeSalles experiments with the correct bullets and rifle.
- Preliminary results from our own experiments using a variety of bullets, rifles and melons.

The emerging patterns is that frangible (hunting) bullets can produce the jet effect in melons, but jacketed (military) bullets (the type Oswald is alleged to have used) can not. Future experiments and the issues the will address will be outlined.

DONALD B. THOMAS, received his Ph.D. In Entomology from the University of Missouri. He has been employed as a research scientist for the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture since 1983. He is the author or coauthor of 75 journal articles and one book dealing with the basic biology of insects. Dr. Thomas is also an adjunct faculty member of the Texas A&M University and the Universidad Nacional Autonoma Mexicana in Mexico City and is a research associate of the Carnegie Museum and the Nebraska State Museum.

Acoustic Evidence of Gunfire, Episodic Blurs and Synchronization With the Zapruder Film

The Zapruder film shows four episodes wherein the occupants of the President's limousine reacts to an external stimulus. These episodes occur at Z-frames 162-67, 194-238, 313-321. Results from an analysis of blur in the Z-film is concordant with these episodes since there are blurs attendant to each of these episodes. However, previous blur analysis misrepresented important aspects of the timing of the blurs. By factoring in bullet flight time and the speed of sound it can be shown that the blurring is consistent with the impact of a bullet at Z-frame 224 originating from the sixth floor of the TSBD. However, the blur attending the impact at Z-frame 312-323 could only have originated with a rifle shot less than 100 feet from Zapruder.

The Dallas Police tape contains the sounds of gunfire. Synchronization of the two police channels in use at the time of the assassination is possible because of radio cross talk. Contrary to the report of the NRC Ballistic Acoustics panel, this synchronization demonstrates that the impulse patterns identified as gunshots were recorded at the precise instant that JFK was killed by gunfire. The third and fourth shots are separated by exactly 4.8 seconds. This allows a precise synchronization with the Zapruder film because the impacts at Z-224 and Z-312 are also 4.8 seconds apart. The synchronization is also in accord with the blur analysis because the third shot originated with the TSBD and the fourth shot from the Grassy Knoll.

Calculations based on the shock wave precedence, and factoring in wind resistance and air temperature, the gunshot from the Grassy Knoll had the acoustic signature of a .30-30 Winchester.

SHERRY GUTIERREZ, a court-certified senior crime scene analyst and court-certified expert in blood stain pattern analysis. She heads the Forensic Investigative Unit for St. Charles Parish, Louisiana Sheriff's Department, works as a consultant to District Attorneys and law enforcement agencies in crime scene investigation and reconstruction. Gutierrez is a member of the International Association for Identification and has served on its subcommittee for bloodstain pattern evidence.

Evaluation of Bloodspatter Observed in the Zapruder Film

Thesis

Blood spatter evaluations the study of the static aftermath of bloodshed. Blood shed as the result of force produces patterns with consistent characteristics which can be duplicated and documented. The Zapruder film records the head wound received by President John F. Kennedy as the result of a gunshot. It also records the blood spatter created as a result of that injury. The spatter observed is commonly referred to as back and forward spatter resulting from high velocity force injury. Evaluation of this spatter can be used to determine if the President was shot from the front or back.

Experiment

To study bloodstains and patterns created as the result of high velocity impact, a foam target containing blood was placed path of a bullet. Cardboard sheets were placed horizontally above and below the target foam, and vertically before and after the target foam. The bullet travelled first through a cardboard sheet before striking the target foam, and then through the cardboard sheet located behind the target. The cardboard sheets were placed at various distances from the target foam as the experiments were repeated. The experiments were photographed with 35mm film and video taped. The cardboard sheets were retained, with their location in relation to the bloody target written on them.

Results

- The cardboard sheets indicated small blood droplets, resembling an atomized spray or mist were created.
