

■ Abraham Zapruder's home video of the assassination of John F. Kennedy was placed in the Library of Congress's registry of American film this week. The 486-frame film was the first amateur video placed in the registry, created in 1988 to preserve films deemed culturally or historically relevant.