

✓ President Dismisses Assassination Fuss

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE NEWS

WASHINGTON — President Johnson said Friday he knew of no evidence "that would cause any reasonable person to have a doubt about the Warren Commission."

He was asked at his press conference to comment on "an aura of mystery" about the assassination of President Kennedy and to explain why photos, V rays and other evidence were not made available to the general public.

Mr. Johnson replied that this evidence had been available to the Warren Commission all the time and is also available to "any official body" now.

"I think," he said, "that every American can understand the reason why we wouldn't want to have the garments, the records and everything paraded out in front of every sewing circle in the country to be exploited and used without serving any good or official purpose."

Mr. Johnson said he understood the material, which has been placed under some restriction by the Kennedy family, has been in the national archives all the time.

He pointed out that the late President's brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., was attorney general at the time the Warren Commission was investigating the death.

"I certainly would think he would have a very thorough interest in seeing that the truth was made evident," Mr. Johnson said. "I believe he did have."

"I think that he, the FBI and the entire government made available everything that the commission wanted. I think they made a very thorough study. I know of no evidence that would in any way cause any reasonable person to have a doubt about the Warren Commission."

"But if there is any evidence and it is brought forth, I am sure that the commission and the appropriate authorities will take action that may be justified."
